A NEW IMPETUS.
The lobby investigation has received new impetus from the Mulhall exposures. Whatever of a condemnable character there may be in the acts set forth in Col. Mulhall's statements the duty devolves upon congress to probe the matter to the bottom.
This investigation, it is understood, is conducted without prejudice against the right of any citizen or corporation to take all honorable measures to protect his or its interests against adverse legislation and to use all proper means to influence legislation in their favor. This right is not denied the meanest citizen any more than the right of trial by jury is reserved for a favored few or a privileged class.
The individual citizen or corporation is as much represented by legislators as the public at large. He or it cannot be prevented from presenting their cases, and arguing their causes to their representatives. That is what congressional and state representatives are for to act as agents or attorneys for their constituents and to listen to the pleas of the people in whatever legitimate capacity they may come before them.
Influencing legislation by corrupt and insidious means is quite another proposition. No such right exists. It is contrary to principle and law. It violates the fundamental rules of government. This violation is what the National Association of Manufacturers is charged with.

The charge is so explicit and backed by so much circumstantial evidence that it cannot be ignored. Members of the association profess themselves to be willing, even eager to be investigated. They declare themselves conscious of no guilty conduct. They express indignation that their motives and their methods have been thus assailed.
There is nothing to do but to submit gracefully to the inquiry about to be made. Public sentiment would not countenance evasion or revolt, nor can these accused persons resort to retaliative measures without incurring the public wrath. They have been accused and will have a fair opportunity to establish their innocence. If they succeed they will be held in higher esteem than before. If they fail they must accept the consequences.
This is a general housecleaning, not a lick and a promise. If the innocent have soap suds spilled on their skirts they should not complain, but trust to that popular sense of justice and right to hold them guiltless.

THE GAMBLERS ARE BACK.
What the authorities of Porter county failed to discover, or at least to report, was disclosed by newspaper reporters, who found gambling in full blast at the Mineral Springs race track. With an impudence that marks their contempt for law the Chicago crowd has returned to Indiana soil, from which it was driven last year by Gov. Marshall.
The claim that racing is to be conducted without violating the law of Indiana, which prohibits race track gambling, is so absurd it should have deceived no one. Gambling is indispensable to the class of racing conducted by the Mineral Springs association. The skins and stakes that chase each other around the Porter county track have no more interest from a sporting point of view than a game of checkers for the people who frequent the place.
The Chicago crowd is there for the dough and not for the sport, and if they cannot get the former they will stay away. They are there to clean up the susceptible who stray into the grounds and to supply the downtown blackboards with figures for the gullible to speculate on. The crowd, having been driven out of Illinois and other neighboring states, is endeavoring to fasten itself upon Indiana as the last as well as the most convenient resort.
Gov. Matthews drove them out with the militia ten years ago or so. Gov. Marshall effectually used the same means last year, and it looks as if Gov. Ralston would have to perform a similar stunt to get rid of the nuisance. The governor is out of the state, but his secretary gives assurance that violations of the law at Mineral Springs will be promptly suppressed and punished.

A CENTURY OF PEACE.
That is an imposing celebration opened at Put-In-Bay on the Fourth. It is in commemoration of Commodore Perry's victory over the British on Lake Erie in 1814, the treaty of Ghent and the century of peace between the two English speaking nations which will close next year.
The celebration is to be continued until October as a sort of moving feast, transferring from Put-In-Bay to Toledo, to Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Erie and other lake ports and Louisville. In the opening ceremony, the laying of the cornerstone of the memorial to Commodore Perry, the naval commander who put the finishing touch on British aggression by water as Gen. Jackson placed a quietus on land invasion at New Orleans.

The peculiar feature of the event is that the British appear to be enjoying it as much as the Americans. They have forgotten the sting of defeat and find gratification in the long period of peaceful and cordial relations between the two countries. Americans are as ready to forget and as willing to forgive the attempts made to break up the government they established under so many difficulties.
The English and American peoples are natural friends and allies, notwithstanding the composite character of the latter. The heaven of true Americanism is so abundant that the lump has not yet grown too large to be leavened by it.

DIARY OF FATHER TIME.
Numa Pompilius, the second king of Rome, who died in 672 B. C., is credited with promulgating what we now term "The Roman Calendar," which divided the year into 12 months instead of ten which had previously constituted the year, and to have decreed that the year should begin on the first day of January or, in January, the name he gave the month in honor of the god Janus, the deity supposed to preside over doors.
The ancient Jewish New Year—the 25th of March—however, continued to be held by law in most Christian countries as the initial day of the year until 1752, when January 1st became the legal New Year in England, and the "New Style," as it was popularly termed, came into vogue.
In France this change had been made in 1564; in Holland, Protestant Germany, and Russia in 1700; while Sweden fell into line in 1753.
Oscar Straus voiced the policy of the progressive party in his Fourth of July speech by declaring that it wants alliance with neither of the old parties. This will be a disappointment to those optimistic people who have had a mental vision of an early reunion.
A sanitary question may be raised by the request of a woman that her body be cremated and the ashes cast into Lake Michigan. Consumers may ask how far their water reservoir is to be used as a dumping ground.
Evelyn Thaw has in a way demonstrated her usefulness, at least her earning power, by drawing, with a partner, $4,000 a week as a dancer. This new development dispels all hope of forgetting her.

The eyes of the state militiamen are turned expectantly toward Mineral Springs. Still, it is hardly possible the gambling at the track is entirely denatured.
The majority of crooks are bachelors, which bespeaks their consideration for women and children and makes the problem of reproduction simpler of solution.
Pleasant and auto parties that got in the way of trolley cars and railroad trains helped maintain the Fourth's reputation as a day of carnage.
Now we will get some real war in the Balkans. Bulgaria has declared it. The fighting heretofore has been merely tentative, as it were.
No one should presume to enter upon the summer vacation without due mental and physical preparation.
Hands across the bloody angle is the new version since the peaceful repetition of Pickett's charge.
Though only pro tem, Mr. Bryan's one-day experience was very much like being president.
Pres. Wilson's scent for the insidious must be regarded as keen.
In July the fly becomes most pestiferous.

STATESMEN REAL AND NEAR BY FRED C. KELLY.
WASHINGTON, July 7.—One of the things about President Wilson that appeals to the Washington correspondents is his admirable candor. At the semi-weekly conferences with the men who write the news from the capital, the President either answers questions that are put to him or else he does not answer. He does one or the other, but always he is candid. If it is something that he feels he can discuss he talks as freely as if he were in the privacy of his own family. If he doesn't care to talk about it, he simply says: "I cannot go into that." Or perhaps he turns the thing off with a joke; but invariably his intention is brought right out into the open. He never attempts to insult the correspondents' intelligence by trying to make it appear that he has answered a question when he has not answered it. And that is the thing that makes a whole lot of a hit with the newspapermen. They appreciate being treated as human kind. A man in the office of President of the United States can do about as he pleases conversationally and one cannot talk back, or press questions that he chooses to evade. Hence the joy of having a President who takes no mean advantage of his position.
As a matter of form a White House stenographer is present at the newspaper conferences, and takes down all the questions that are asked of the President and what he says in reply. But the stenographer is not there because of any fear that the President has of being misquoted or misrepresented. He is simply there to make it felt that when the President talks as freely as he does at these meetings there should be some record of his remarks.
For an instance of presidential frankness, one may cite the conversation in connection with the formal White House statement about lobbyists published broadcast some time ago.
The President chanced to remark in the course of one of the regular newspaper conferences that an inquisitive lobby was acting in opposition to the tariff bill, and that he wished the whole country might know about it. He discussed the situation at some length.
"Mr. President," suggested one of the correspondents, "if you desire for the country to know about this lobby, why not let us quote your verbatim on what you have just said. Then you may depend upon it, the country will know."
"I do not know what it was I did say," smiled the President. "I talk so unreservedly with you fellows that I cannot always recall what I have said. But I'll tell you what I will do: if you don't mind waiting here a little while, I'll try to get time to dictate something for you."
"Fine," said the correspondent who had offered the suggestion. "That will get to the country."
And it did.

Along came a new member with his family last year from a hick town out west where the night policeman begins to get drowsy about 9.45, and the only event of moment for the number of the Star lecture course. Now, one of the discoveries made by this new member soon after his arrival here was that members of congress are not only entitled to draw all the books they want from the Congressional Library, but that the Library people will deliver the books to the member's place of residence. It is one of the many little courtesies the government extends to its congressional servants to keep them from getting discontented and fretful.
After the new member's family had been a week, the eldest daughter, a right pretty young woman of nineteen, was making the works of Geo. B. McCutcheon and Harold McGrath and Robert W. Chambers delivered to their hotel five and six at a time. One of the other hotel guests noticed this one day and remarked pleasantly enough:
"Ah, I never knew that the library delivered books to one's hotel."
"Oh, mercy, yes," said the new member's daughter, languidly. "Do you suppose I would go 'way out to the library every time I want a book?"
And they do say that out in the little town she had come from the Carnegie Library, with its 4,000 volumes, is located out beyond a swamp.

Representative Ben Johnson of Kentucky and a friend of his were riding along on the street car the other day, and the friend noticed Johnson staring at a colored passenger two or three seats ahead. The man had an odd-shaped head, cut into two grand divisions, for and aft, by a little hollow running from temple to temple.
"Notice that fellow's head?" asked Johnson.
"Very unusual shape, isn't it," agreed the friend.
"Yes," went on Johnson; "and it sort of fascinates me. I can't think of a thing when I look at it but an egg with two yellows in it."
Seven members of the United States senate are more than seventy years of age. They are Stephenson of Wisconsin, who is eighty-four, and the oldest member, Gen. Nelson of New Hampshire; DuPont of Delaware; Bacon of Georgia; Perkins of California; Bankhead, of Alabama, and Cator, of New Mexico. With the exception of Perkins, who was enfeebled a few years ago by a fall, the seven seem just about as spry as any of their colleagues, if not more so.
Senator Kern of Indiana, always wears his hat cocked jauntily a little to one side. It matters not a whit, either, if it happens to be a silk hat. In fact, Kern reasons, a silk hat gives one all the more necessity to wear it at an informal angle to take some of the curse off the thing.

ENGINE TURNS TURTLE; FIREMAN IS SCALDED
Emergency Brakes Applied at High Speed Turns Locomotive Over on B. & O. S.
NORTH VERNON, Ind., July 7.—Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern passenger train No. 12, was wrecked thirty-five miles south of here Sunday when the engine turned turtle when the emergency brakes were applied. Ed. Boyer, fireman of Nabbs, Ind., was so badly scalded that he died within a few hours and Engineer Walter Darling received a broken leg. No passengers were injured.
The train was running about 45 miles an hour when Darling discovered fire near the front wheels. When he applied the brakes the spill occurred.

Force Way Into Club.
The rioting began when strikers forced their way into the Rand club, whose members are mine owners. They demolished everything on the ground floor. Three times dragoons scattered the mob but it quickly reformed. The troops fired a volley over the heads of the rioters, and then two volleys directly into their ranks. The rioters fled, leaving behind a large number of killed and wounded. Local troops then took command at the four principal streets, which they swept with their rifles whenever the rioters started to return.
In the meantime, from the roof tops the troops were assailed with missiles and bullets. After almost the strike committee who had conferred with Generals Botha and Smuts, marched through the streets under a white flag, announcing that an armistice had been arranged and ordering the men to return to their homes. Ambulances went about picking up the wounded during the fighting, delegates from the strike leaders said at midnight that terms of the settlement were being accepted all along the Reef.
Revised figures show that about 20 persons were killed and 150 wounded on Saturday and that 100 were killed or wounded Friday.
The first outbreak of natives occurred at Randfontein, where 1,500 broke out of their compound. Hussars and mounted police then broke up the rioters and drove them back.
Rioters have burned many small shops and cottages at Benoni and have also blown up the Star newspaper office.

FEELING INTENSE AS GOLD MINE STRIKE GROWS
Settlement of Trouble at Johannesburg Ineffective Although Comparative Order is Established.
JOHANNESBURG, July 7.—The settlement of the strike among the gold miners in the Rand district, which the government arranged with a committee of strikers Saturday, has proved ineffective, although comparative order was preserved over night and Sunday.
The mobs reassembled Sunday. All trains and street cars suspended service, the crews refusing to work. No newspapers were able to publish. Additional troops guarded the Rand club, the scene of serious encounters Saturday. A great mob assembled there hooting and jeering the troops. Up to midnight there had been no serious trouble, but armed police everywhere were guarding property.
A huge meeting was held Sunday afternoon to celebrate the strikers' victory. The leaders counseled the men to retain the upper hand they had gained, but strongly deprecated the proposal to employ force to liberate the rioters from the streets during the disturbances. They invited the men to attend Monday the funeral of those killed, whom they described as "martyrs to a glorious cause."
The suggestion, that Governor General Gladstone's recall be demanded was greeted with vociferous cheers.
A ballot of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers of the whole Reef gave a vast majority in favor of accepting the proposed settlement. The council of the society adopted a resolution providing for the calling of a strike a month hence should the grievances not be adequately redressed.
The opinion is very general that the government has made serious blunders throughout the process of trying this situation. When Gen. Louis Botha, the ex-premier of the Union of South Africa, and Gen. Smuts, minister of the interior, mines and defense, arrived at Johannesburg they were amazed at the strikers' organization and the desperate spirit of the leaders.
Flushed With Success.
The Federation of the Reef is flushed with success and confident that they are complete masters of the situation. The Trades Unionists are ready to obey any order given them. The leaders have already commanded the newspapers to cease publication until further notice. They count on the government's fear of the natives' 200,000 of whom are locked in the compounds at the mines. They may start looting and killing if unlocked. The terms of the settlement failed to stipulate when the men should return to work, and the leaving matters in a chaotic condition.
Casualties resulting from the fighting Saturday are now estimated at 110. Two officers, three soldiers and several policemen were wounded.
Strike leaders were apparently trying Sunday night to get the men to accept the terms, but on all sides dissatisfaction is expressed. A spirit of anarchy has been aroused which it is difficult to control.
A great crowd of strikers wearing red badges surrounded the Charlton hotel while the terms of settlement were being arranged Saturday night. When the leaders announced from the balcony that a settlement had been agreed to, they were greeted with shouts of "what about the dead?" "You've been bought."

Clara: I know parrots will greatly reduce your weight, and when this is done you will feel much better and healthier. To prepare the treatment, get from your druggist 4 ounces parrot, and dissolve in 1 1/2 pints hot water, then take a tablespoonful at meal time. This acts gradually and gently and safely reduces weight without resorting to violent exercise or dieting. This treatment is far superior to any "patent" fat-reducer, for the reason that the graceful lines of the figure are regained and the flesh and skin are left firm and smooth.
Anxious: This is the only safe, certain hair-remover. Mix into a paste enough detanone and water to cover the hairy surface, apply and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, cleanse the skin and the hairs will have vanished. Rarely is the second application necessary to remove even a stubborn growth.
Gentle: You can easily and quickly cleanse your hair and scalp with canthrox, and the shampoo is so refreshing and invigorating that you will never again use or permit the use of soap or other mucous harmful mixtures for this purpose. Just dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of water and your shampoo is ready. After rinsing, the hair will dry very quickly and take on a rich, even color and beautiful gloss. Canthrox is especially nice for hot weather shampoos, because it stimulates and invigorates the scalp's tissues and makes the head feel so exhilarated.

Take a tablespoonful before each meal and you will be surprised how quickly your sugar and water make a quart. The kerdene tonic is fine for any kidney or liver trouble and will clear the skin of sallowness, blotches, pimples and other complexion faults, as well as make you weigh exactly what you should.

THE HOME BEAUTY PARLOR
By Betty Dean
Clara: I know parrots will greatly reduce your weight, and when this is done you will feel much better and healthier. To prepare the treatment, get from your druggist 4 ounces parrot, and dissolve in 1 1/2 pints hot water, then take a tablespoonful at meal time. This acts gradually and gently and safely reduces weight without resorting to violent exercise or dieting. This treatment is far superior to any "patent" fat-reducer, for the reason that the graceful lines of the figure are regained and the flesh and skin are left firm and smooth.
Anxious: This is the only safe, certain hair-remover. Mix into a paste enough detanone and water to cover the hairy surface, apply and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, cleanse the skin and the hairs will have vanished. Rarely is the second application necessary to remove even a stubborn growth.
Gentle: You can easily and quickly cleanse your hair and scalp with canthrox, and the shampoo is so refreshing and invigorating that you will never again use or permit the use of soap or other mucous harmful mixtures for this purpose. Just dissolve a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of water and your shampoo is ready. After rinsing, the hair will dry very quickly and take on a rich, even color and beautiful gloss. Canthrox is especially nice for hot weather shampoos, because it stimulates and invigorates the scalp's tissues and makes the head feel so exhilarated.
Auntie: Yes, that old-fashioned kerdene tonic will do you a great amount of good, I am sure. Here is the recipe: To prepare, add 1 ounce kerdene to 1/2 pint alcohol (whisky would not be used), then 1/2 cup sugar and 1/2 cup water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and you will be surprised how quickly your sugar and water make a quart. The kerdene tonic is fine for any kidney or liver trouble and will clear the skin of sallowness, blotches, pimples and other complexion faults, as well as make you weigh exactly what you should.
Minnie: You should use a crystal eye-tonic as it is very soothing and restful ing the wounded during the fighting, delegates from the strike leaders said at midnight that terms of the settlement were being accepted all along the Reef.

Revised figures show that about 20 persons were killed and 150 wounded on Saturday and that 100 were killed or wounded Friday.
The first outbreak of natives occurred at Randfontein, where 1,500 broke out of their compound. Hussars and mounted police then broke up the rioters and drove them back.
Rioters have burned many small shops and cottages at Benoni and have also blown up the Star newspaper office.
WILLED FORTUNE BUT ACCEPTS $3,000 GIFT
MARION, Ind., July 7.—The final chapter of the long story of months of litigation over the will of the late Anderson Hogston, the eccentric farmer who devised his $100,000 estate to the Hadley Industrial school, the Grant County Orphans' home and the Marion Y. M. C. A., was written today when James I. Hogston, half-brother of the testator, gave a check for $3,000 to Y. M. C. A. Sec. G. A. Morris, in compromise of the action brought on behalf of that institution, the other beneficiaries under the will having waived their rights to the bequest.
